In case another religious house in your locality or state wants to help you in what you are doing, or seeks financial help for what they are already doing (e.g., free breakfast for 250 poor people every day in Delhi, which different religious institutions of Delhi are sponsoring), we can put you in touch with one another.

As for the information provided under A, the National CRI Office will make a summary and send it to Caritas, so that they can integrate it in their report to the PMO, so that the government can know what the Catholic Church is doing. Others can support or learn from it. We religious too can learn from one another. A number of religious communities have moved quickly to reach out and help the neediest.
