

In 1997, John Paul II called for consecrated life to be promoted throughout the universal Church. He declared February 2, the feast of the Presentation of the Lord, to be observed as World Day for Consecrated Life (WDCL). In the United States, when February 2 is not on a Sunday, we celebrate on the Sunday after the Presentation. This year WDCL is observed on February 3, 2013 the Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time.

The celebration of World Day for Consecrated Life invites all the Church to reflect on the role of Consecrated Life within the Christian community. Those who choose to live a consecrated life do so for the sake of the gospel.

Some Christian women and men respond to God's call to become followers of Jesus through profession of vows and a life dedicated to prayer and service. They live out the consecrated life in different ways. Religious sisters, nuns, brothers, religious priests, and monks consecrate their lives through their profession of the evangelical vows and live as part of a community. Single lay people may choose to be consecrated virgins and make private vows to the local bishop as they live out their vocation in various walks of life. Secular institutes are another form of living the consecrated life as single people. Those who become followers of Jesus through the consecrated life bless the Church.

The USA Council of Serra International offers this resource to assist you in your local celebration of World Day for Consecrated Life. We hope this kit provide you with ideas to create a meaningful celebration in your parish, diocese, religious community or other church institution.

HOMILY NOTES

Year C

For those of you old enough, can you finish the following commercial jingles and name the company? “My bologna has a first name...;” “Plop, Plop, fizz, fizz...;” “I’d like to teach the world to sing in perfect harmony...;” These catchy jingles stand the test of time because they touch something pressed upon our psyche. Once heard again, we cannot get the tunes out of our heads—especially during the rest of this homily and Mass! Give them credit; the jingle song writers have caught us forever in their whimsical trap.

Not unlike these writers, we Catholics have some good inspirational song writers with their catchy tunes. One such song is “Here, I am Lord” whose refrain is: Here I am Lord, is it I Lord? I have heard you calling in the night. I will go Lord, if you lead me. I will hold your people in my heart [Was this hymn sung today?].

Are these lyrics just as appealing as the commercial jingles? Are they so pressed upon our minds that we could burn them onto our I-Pods? Have these words got us caught forever in a whimsical trap of God’s call? Or, have we discarded them because we believe that the words apply only to those called to seek a vocation in the consecrated life? Maybe we believe only those who are worthy and holy, such as Isaiah, Paul, Peter or women in scripture, can be called to such a noble task.

Well, guess what? These scripture figures, as well as saints, and those men and women called to live the consecrated life are not the only one’s called. Isaiah, Paul and Peter are proof of that. They were ordinary people like us with shortcomings and sins. They felt unworthy to serve. However, like the people in the synagogue listening to Jesus in today’s Gospel, God’s prophetic call compelled them to change and follow Christ.

This conversion came to these men when they recognized the glory and presence of God in their lives. [Where do we see God's glory and presence in our lives?] Having seen these manifestations, their minds were opened and their hearts transformed. Their unworthiness became humility. Each could confidently say: send me. I will preach. I will follow. They now had gained sufficient trust in and total dependency on God who would supply them with the necessary graces to overcome any deficiencies in their lives. This is why Paul could say in today's reading: "If I have the eloquence of men or angels, but speak without love, I am simply a gong booming or a cymbal clashing."

God always takes us as we are and where we are! God's lyrics of the call have been pressing upon our minds since our existence. It should be a familiar tune that calls all of us to a vocation to serve God as a person of any age, physicality or state of life.

Consequently, we're all worthy to serve! All of us can attain holiness! We must toss away from our minds the bad jingle tunes of being undeserving and not holy. When we remove such thinking from our mind, we are opening ourselves to God's will. We recognize the innate fact of our universal call to holiness, which has been proclaimed in scripture (e.g. Lev 19:2; Mt. 5: 48), and more recently in the Vatican II document, Lumen Gentium.

St. Francis de Sales thought the average person was confused about the meaning of holiness. He was persistently reminding people that the call to holiness emerges out of our human nature, a nature created in the image of God. As one strives to be holy, one needs to be patient with one's imperfections and faults. That holiness is derived from the ordinary Christian ways we act in life and not in extraordinary deeds performed. Similarly, St. Jane de Chantal, said that "one cannot always offer God great things, but one can offer God small things with great love." Simply, holiness is attained by the way we love God and neighbor.

And so, as we think about the many ways in which we are called to love in ordinary ways and do it extraordinarily well, let us not forget those women and men who have responded to God's call to serve as a consecrated religious. This day and Mass is dedicated to them throughout the world. On this World Day for Consecrated Life, may the lives of consecrated women and men be blessed with God's overwhelming grace of love! May their lives inspire us to hear God's vocational call. May this tune be forever in our minds and transform our hearts to say boldly: "Here I am, Lord, send me!"

WORLD DAY FOR CONSECRATED LIFE

February 2/3, 2013

GENERAL INTERCESSIONS

Presider: Jesus calls each of us to follow and encourages us not to be afraid. With confidence in God's grace we seek God's help.

For our world, may all leaders and organizations work together for greater justice. May these efforts lead to lasting peace, we pray.

For our Church, may we realize that God calls all of us to holiness. May we allow God to transform our unworthiness into goodness, we pray.

For those who are called to the consecrated life, may they be faithful witnesses of God's love. May others be inspired to live their baptismal commitment by professing the vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience, we pray.

For our families and for this Christian community, may we respond to the needs of those close to us. May gratitude and generosity abound, we pray.

For those who have died (especially . . .), may they sing God's praises with the angels. May their spirit abide with us, we pray.

Presider: Loving God, we trust in your love and compassion for your people. Hear our prayers and grace us with your blessings. We seek to do your will through the power of your Spirit, now and always. Amen.

Musical Suggestions

Psalmody Suggestions

Sung (with cantor) or spoken, or a combination (sing refrain, speak the verses) Psalms 71, 27, 34, 40

Reading Selections

- Jeremiah 1:4-5, 17-19 (Sunday)
- Luke 4: 21-30 (Presentation)
- John 17:17-23 (Consecration)

Reflection

Invite someone who lives the consecrated life to give testimony; or ask a variety of people to speak on the meaning of the consecrated life for the life of the Church.

Response

Renewal of vows; blessing with incense, or water, or invite everyone to come forward with open hands and be blessed with a touch and/or words. Choose a musical selection.

Canticle of Mary

A sung or spoken version. Could be sung as a meditation, possibly with dance.

Leader: Let us pray:

Holy God,

All: With gratitude in our hearts,
we praise you for your love and your fidelity.

You have shown us the way to holiness through Mary and Jesus and many faithful witnesses.

You continue to call men and women to dedicate their lives through the vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience.

Give them courage to respond generously to your call with "Here I am, send me!"

Blessed by your Spirit,
may we always proclaim your love with our lives.
Amen.

BULLETIN ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sunday, January 27, 2013

Next Sunday we will celebrate World Day for Consecrated Life. The Church is invited to remember with gratitude the women and men who have dedicated their lives in service to the mission of Jesus. We also want to pray that others will hear the call to consecrated life and respond generously. (Add any other information about your observance of this day.)

Sunday, February 3, 2013

Today we rejoice and celebrate World Day for Consecrated Life. Over the years, many men and women have chosen to live out their baptismal vocation by professing the evangelical counsels of poverty, chastity, and obedience. They do this by joining a religious congregation, a secular institute, or through private vows. We pray for these people (You may wish to name people particular to your parish) and ask God to bless our Church with others who will dedicate their lives to God's service. (Add any other information about your observance.)

WORLD DAY FOR CONSECRATED LIFE

February 2/3, 2013

SUGGESTED ACTIVITIES

Diocese, Parishes, Schools, Serra Clubs:

- Invite members of institutes of consecrated life from your parish to serve as ministers for the Sunday liturgy.
- Invite members of institutes of consecrated life to speak to adults/children in religious education programs.
- Host a prayer service and reception (See Prayer Service).
- Offer a day of perpetual adoration dedicated to vocations to consecrated life.
- Encourage open houses throughout the diocese.
- Sponsor a vocation fair, walkathon, or rally highlighting institutes of consecrated life.
- Provide copies of vocation magazines, brochures, and flyers (www.serraus.org).
- Encourage vocation awareness through diaconate, lay ministry, parents' baptism programs, family ministries.
- Have a vocation section in parish bulletin, bulletin board, newsletters. Highlight stories of people who live the consecrated life, especially those who serve in the local parish or who entered from the parish.
- Work with local communicators to develop media coverage with stories, television & radio public service announcements about the consecrated life, inspirational e-movies.

Institutes of Consecrated Life:

- Invite friends, employees, benefactors, and families to join you for prayer, talk, a meal, or an open house. Share about your life and charism.
- Plan a simple prayer in which you share your vocation stories together. Renew your vows. Invite interested people to join you.
- Do a press release or share a story about your institute with the local press.
- Open your doors to college students for a place to study and pray.
- Sponsor a "holy hour" to pray for vocations.
- Host a "Come & See" experience or "Nun Run".
- Sponsor a summer camp and invite young people to participate and learn about your congregation.
- Create a congregation vocation website that is interactive: chat room, blog, podcast, invitation to conference call with other discerners.
